Happy Saint Patrick's Day!

We hope you have a happy St. Paddy's Day!

Did you have a good mid-term? Do anything nice?

We have some good news for you! Our clothes collection raised over €1200 and the Valentine's raffle raised over €400.

We would like to congratulate our winners, Ms. Durcan, Micheal Banks and Danielle Corrigan Byrne on winning the big hampers in the raffle.

The weather here lately has been rotten. It was so wet and cold, plus it kind of snowed! It was the coldest it has been in Ireland in a long time. The weather has improved a good bit though, it is a lot warmer than it was a few weeks ago. It's actually very warm! (It was like this because of GLOBAL WARMING don't you SEE!)

Also, the winter Olympics started and there was some tough competition. We want to say well done to our snowboarder, Seamus O'Connor!

Interview with Maria, Noel, Ms. Durcan and Mr. Carthy.

Movie review The LEGO MOVIE

Hello, this movie is a must see, it is awesome. The movie is about a normal Lego man called Emmet, who learns of the evil Lord Business who wants to end the world with the kragle (aka super glue). He wants his citizens to be perfect and make them follow instructions. But one thing is in his way, The Special. Anyway I rate this movie 10/10 with an extra point :D

Irish Dancing

There are loads of world champions all over the world. Here are some of the names of the world champions; Cyra Taylor, Jack Quinn, Ruairi Mc Cabe, and Aiesha Coyle.

To get to the worlds you either need to qualify in the Nationals or the Leinsters. In some competitions you could be dancing against over a 100 people.

At feises you have to wear a costume covered in diamonds and designs, fake tan, fake eye lashes, makeup, wigs, head gear and earrings.

Also Irish dancing is very athletic, with fitness because you have to be able to do clicks, overs, jumps and loads of other things.

For the last thing people think Irish dancing is not a sport but it is. You have to be dedicated because it costs a lot of money.

The Alphabetical Schoolboy By: Caoimhe

Arriving late for class.

Being told off for talking.

Causing disruptions with a spider.

Dying for break to come.

Eating behind my maths book.

Flicking paper at people.

Getting into trouble for not listening.

Hoping lunchtime will come soon.

Idling away the boring classes.

Jumping up at the lunch bell.

Killing time by doodling.

Learning new things.

Naming the countries of the world.

Opening my books to learn something new.

Picking up the way of doing sums.

Quieting down when the teacher comes in.

Reading my library book.

Sighing at the thought of going home.

Talking about boring homework.

Using my new pen to write with.

Vanishing from somebody I don't like.

Writing until my hands hurt.

X-citing my friends with gossip.

Yawning at quarter to three.
